While Ye Have Light.
Brave, Pious Patrick.
Making Steel With Gas.
Big Bootleg Bribes.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.]

NEWTON, KAN., March 19.

AS THIS is written on the way through Kansas, two cars are visible up to their hubs in mud, on the road beside the Santa Fe track. There should be a national well-paved highway one hundred feet wide running from ocean to ocean in place of this long mudhole.

SENATOR CAPPER'S able Topeka Daily Capital carries this appropriate text on today's editorial page: "Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you. John 12-35."

BONFELS in his Denver Post says the Colorado Fuel and Iron company will make steel with natural gas. They will also use gas from coke ovens since coke is needed in the blast furnaces.

WHY not change natural gas at the well into electric power, manufacture steel by the electric process, do away with coke, make better, cheaper, almost rust proof steel? That should interest Mr. Rockefeller who controls Colorado Fuel and Iron. Mr. Willis who helped Henry Ford to develop wonderfully strong steel alloys could tell how to do it.

VICTOR BERGER, only Socialist in Congress, and a sincere advocate of obedience to law, sometimes says things that need to be said.

When congressmen of both big parties had worn themselves out urging reduction of big individual and corporate income taxes, Victor Berger said, "I want to say a few words for men and women who do not earn enough to pay any income tax."

"They are the people without whose toil and effort the income tax payers could not exist for a single day. They are the people without whom civilization could not exist for a single day."

HOW rarely anything is said in Congress about individuals that don't pay an income tax. Yet they number more than 115,000,000.

Congressmen don't agree with Berger, but listen to him, laugh at his good points and applaud him. THEY KNOW HE IS HONEST.

A THOUSAND more marines are sent to Nicaragua, three thousand five hundred of our "Devil Dogs" fighters will watch the polls at Nicaragua's election.

Nicaragua might ask, "Why don't you use a few of them in your big city elections?"

Doris Julia McDonald Exonerated in Quebec Murder.

CROWN WILL ACT

Respite and New Trial are Now Expected.

MONTREAL, Que., March 19.—Through his eleventh-hour statement completely exonerating Doris Julia McDonald from any part in the killing of Adelard Bouchard, George McDonald today had regained the love of the wife who was to have been hanged with him next Friday morning on the gallows in Valleyfield prison.

The thoughts of the former Oklahoma and Mt. Vernon, N. Y. girl turned today not to her promised freedom, but to the man whom she had become estranged as the hour of death swiftly approached.

"I did not believe that he would speak out," she said today in her prison cell, "but I am glad that he has told the truth at last. It justifies the love that I had for him, the love that was still when I believed he was shielding himself at my expense."

The party spent the night in Mansfield and returned to East Liverpool Saturday after receiving reports that the Ceramic City school team had been defeated by McKinley High of Canton in the first clash of the tournament.

The other automobile was owned by Miss Mary Slutz, teacher of mathematics in the high school, who was accompanied by five high school students. The car skidded on the snow-covered road as it was rounding a curve near Hayesville and overturned on its side, but none of the passengers was scratched. ## Midlander Loses $800 In Confidence Game

Oscar Bulger, Negro Mill Worker, Listens to Wild Story About Confiscation of Bank Deposits and Then His Savings Vanish.

Oscar Bulger, colored steel worker, of Midland, was swindled out of $800 by two confidence men on a street car this morning, according to a report made to Chief of Police McDermott.

McDermott telegraphed a description of the two strangers to police at Steubenville and other nearby towns and at the same time kept a lookout on outgoing street cars and trains. Bulger was advised to go to Pittsburgh to look for the two "con" men.

Bulger told the police that he met the two men, both Negroes, in Midland yesterday afternoon. One of them inquired where they could rent a room for the night and he directed them to a rooming house. They advised him that they had come from the south where colored people were being advised to take their money from the banks as the whites were preparing to "confiscate it."

Pocket Picked. To support their statements, the strangers told Bulger that they had $1,500 on deposit in an East Liverpool bank and that they were going to withdraw it this morning.

Acting upon the advice of the strangers, Bulger went to the First National bank at Midland this morning where he withdrew $800 of his savings, leaving about $175 on deposit. He and the two strangers then boarded a car for East Liverpool where they said they would also withdraw their money.

Upon their arrival here Bulger was left on the street to await their return from the bank. When the two men failed to return he boarded a car for Midland. At Smiths Ferry he reached for his money and learned it was missing. He then returned to East Liverpool, reporting the theft to the police.

Police believe the money to have been taken from Bulger's pocket when he boarded the car in Midland. A Midland foreigner was swindled out of $1,400 in a confidence game about a year ago.

Two Worthy Causes

East Liverpool district people are asked to support two worthwhile causes this week.

Under the auspices of the Kiwanis club, the Ohio State University Men's Glee club and Scarlet Mask band, including 50 vocalists, musicians and other entertainers, will appear in concerts Thursday afternoon and evening in the high school auditorium for the benefit of instrumental music in the East Liverpool schools.

On the same night, the Monstrel Frolles, staged by William Stevenson and Austin Boiles, will be presented in the Strand theatre under the auspices of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters to bolster a fund for the benefit of the families of striking coal miners in the West Point-Lisbon district.

Except for the actual expenses involved in bringing the university men here, all proceeds of the glee club's concerts will be turned into a fund to be expended in purchasing uniforms and instruments for the school band and meeting the cost of instruction. None of the school funds heretofore have been used for this purpose.

According to reports of investigators, the needs of wives and children of idle coal miners in the southern part of Columbiana county is acute, so this should prompt support of the potters' minstrel production.

Both the glee club concerts and minstrel show are for causes which merit patronage.

Cash For Food

If this installment buying—or "spaced buying," as some people prefer to call it now—is bad at all, it is not so bad as critics have thought. For there are important facts that have been strangely overlooked. William G. Shepherd tells about them, and they make a strange and reassuring revelation. It's about like this:

The American people spend about $11,000,000,000 a year for groceries and $6,000,000,000 for meat. We used to be trusted for three-fourths of our groceries and half our meat. That is, we went into debt, as a nation, $8,000,000,000 or $9,000,000,000 to the grocer in the course of the year, and $3,000,000,000 to the butcher.

About 10 per cent of our groceries are now cash-and-carry stores, and some other stores have gone on a cash basis. Thus we have taken about $1,000,000,000 off the grocery book and paid it in cash. Meanwhile the cash idea has operated still more effectively in the meat business, so that we are dumping into the butchers' cash registers about $2,000,000,000 a year that formerly went on the books.

Result: We have released about $3,500,000,000—three billions, five hundred million dollars—of credit, which can now be used for other purposes.

That fact, along with the plentitude of gold in the country, is why our credit is so good, and why we are able to buy so much merchandise on the installment plan.

Just how much our installment buying amounts to is uncertain, but it is probably little if any greater than the amount of family credit we have released by paying for our food as we eat it.

Disaster In Coffee City

In a recent landslide scores of homes were buried and upward of 200 residents of Santos, Brazil, were killed. A mountain in the very center of Santos shifted, and a portion of its sides swept down in the city.

Folks unacquainted with their geography often fail to realize the commercial importance and the cosmopolitan aspects of some of the cities of South American countries. They read the name of a South American town, and the thought, perhaps only a fleeting one, comes that it is only a small place, lacking in modern conveniences, uncultured—a city of mud houses.

But this aspect is wrong. Take Santos, for instance. Santos is the city your cup of coffee built. It is the seaport for the greatest coffee-raising country in the world. Fifty miles inland from Santos is Sao Paulo, the very heart of the world's greatest coffee-producing area. From Sao Paulo annually more than a million pounds of the green berries annually pour down into Santos for shipment overseas.

As a result of this strategic economic situation Santos ships each year approximately nine million sacks of 132 pounds each, and worth $150,000,000, to the coffee-drinking cities and nations of the world.

Just as cotton stimulates the prosperity of Houston, that inland city of Texas which has a deep water basin sufficient to accommodate ocean-going vessels; and just as rubber adds to the wealth of Singapore, so coffee keeps Santos growing at a marvelous rate.

In total exports annually Santos surpasses Rio de Janeiro and so is Brazil's premier port for outgoing trade. In shipments to the United States, Santos is the first port in all South America. It has a population close to 150,000.

Saving For Uncle Sam

The kind of a man Uncle Sam has as director of the budget is shown by remarks General Lord made recently before the Colby Alumni association in New York city. He said:

"Reduction of one inch in the size of domestic money order blanks has saved the United States a yearly expense of $8,152,000. Another yearly saving of $13,000 was made by discontinuing painting stripes on mail bags. Of the total treasury surplus of $2,692,000,000, the budget system has saved $2,392,000,000.

"But the public receives these figures with a little enthusiasm as an appointment with the dentist."

General Lord is absolutely correct in his declaration concerning the lack of enthusiasm the average American shows for statements in which there are figures of a saving or an expenditure by the government.

That is one of the greatest faults of the average American. They do not like to be bothered with figures. When a government official of the standing of General Lord announces savings one may rest assured the figures are correct. Yet the public scans them carelessly, they receive small space in the newspapers, and they are promptly forgotten.

Hard luck, high school basketball. But there is no disgrace in an extra period defeat at the hands of McKinley quintet of Canton. East Liverpool is proud of you.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 19.—Fifteen years ago there were only 300 public libraries in the United States, whereas the survey recently made by the American Library Association shows that there are now almost 6000—5954, to be exact. In Canada there are 570 such libraries, making a total of 6524 in the territory to which the association directs its library extension efforts.

Footed the population by States and Provinces of the municipalities, counties, and other governmental units having public libraries gives a count of 60,649,723 people in the United States and 3,388,794 in Canada, according to the last official censuses, that have access to these libraries. That is, 56 per cent of the people of the two countries live in public library service areas.

New York leads in the number of public libraries with 514. Massachusetts is second with 420 and Illinois third with 320. Massachusetts has the greatest number of books in her libraries, exceeding New York's $552,893 by about 30,000. California with 272 libraries is third in number of volumes with slightly more than 6,000,000. For Canada the number of volumes per capita is .35.

Classification of types of library administration was not attempted by the association. It found that in most parts of this country a publicly supported library is administered by a publicly appointed, official library board. In the older East, where endowments are often found, there are many library associations and corporations, created sometimes by will or deed of trust. Libraries financed from year to year through private initiative are often governed by informal associations or by the club which established them.

At least 4495 public libraries are supported entirely or partially from public funds and 1596 from private sources, leaving a small group of 433 whose source of income could not be determined. That the library is a public institution to be supported by public taxation, increasingly but as yet far from universally recognized. For example, a ruling of the Indiana supreme court gave public library boards the right to determine the tax needed, on the grounds that public libraries were a part of the educational system of the state, and that the constitution had specifically provided for a system of public education.

Legal provision for tax support varies widely from state to state. In some states the council or other taxing body makes an annual appropriation from general funds based on a budget submitted by the library board. In other states a library tax is levied, the exact rate being usually determined each year by the tax-leaving authority, though a minimum or a maximum rate, or both, may be fixed by law. The Ontario law requires a minimum levy equal to 50 cents per person in the community to be served.

The American Library association standard is $1.00 per capita of the population served as a minimum annual revenue. Individual public libraries giving a high grade of service are actually spending more than that. It is stated, among the number being libraries in Boston, Cleveland, Detroit, Newark and Portland, Oregon. Massachusetts reports 86 libraries which meet or pass this standard, and Ohio, 26.

The average library exists only in the statistician's mind, but it may be said to spend $5680 annually, to own 10,523 volumes, and to issue 36,463 books a year.

ABROAD With McIntire

PARIS, March 19.—Ciro's is perhaps the most famous and certainly the most expensive restaurant in Paris. It is one of those places made exclusive for the masses, standing modestly in rue Daunou, a few steps off rue de la Paix. A tiny sign traces the name in delicate pink.

The cafe is owned by an English syndicate and the manager wearing a monocle and red lapel rose usually graces the entrance. The head waiter Julien has a bowing acquaintance with all European royalty. He speaks almost every language, including a little Hindustani, is rich, and a trifle haughty.

To enter the main dining rooms one must go through a tiny bar where it is customary for both ladies and gentlemen to stand with feet on the rail for an aperitif. You are expected to tip the bartender at least 10 per cent of your bill. If you don't the word goes around the restaurant. It is a testing station.

There are two dining rooms—one close and intimate and to the right a larger room. If you are a favored guest or a person of importance you are seated in the small room. But if the head waiter regards you as a hooligan you are plotted to the larger.

There is the story of the newly rich American who had been placed in the small room near the entrance to the larger. From his chair he could see there were more people in the big room, so he called a waiter captain, gave him a mille franc and asked to be transferred there. He was.

Dinner at Ciro's starts at 9 o'clock, but by 11 it is almost deserted. It is the best patronized luncheon place in Paris. Save among those who mingle with Americans or the English, a Parisian never goes there. He knows cafes as smart and good at half the price.

One often sees an American negro in full evening dress dining at Ciro's, also gentlemen in jeweled turbans and robes, so well as a sprinkling of the registered demi-monde. France tolerates no racial or class prejudices on the part of cafe keepers. Food at Ciro's is priced about the same as in swank New York places. Only wines and liquors seem cheap.

Around the livery stable back home Monk Welch used to ask the boys as we passed by on way to school if we ever saw a horse fly? Well, today I did at Le Bourget. A vaudeville actress hit upon the idea of carrying her trained horse to London by plane. It required exactly four hours to get the frightened, squealing animal into the compartment made for it. This was accomplished by two Texas cowpunchers who have not yet started home from the legion meeting. The poor animal was tightly strapped in place and tonight I heard it arrived safely. It was a cruel performance and the actress has no right to own a horse.

The Prince of Wales is in town for the evening, incognito, so it is whispered around the bars, on one of those secret missions which made his grandpapa, King Edward, so popular among Parisians. A say dog, Eddie.

It would now seem it is almost distinguished not to wear the tiny red string of the Chevalier of the Legion of Honor. I counted eleven in a gathering at lunch today. And I am not envious either. That is, not much.

The tragedy of the Russian people is brought to your door sharply in Paris. Today a cultured lady called to display handkerchiefs she had for sale. They were made by her bedridden husband—once a business man of standing in Moscow. He escaped from Russia in a closed wheeler basket in which he remained for twenty-two insufferable hours and the experience shattered his health.

I am told the impudent type of taxi drivers are the criminal class of Russians exiled here. Parisians claim French drivers are as polite as ever they were.

But the one who insisted I pay for the door window I did not break was as typically French as those little red strings they sew in your laundry.

The most popular raconteur in Paris is Gilbert White, the American painter. His box mats are quoted all over Europe. He is a brother of Stewart Edward White.

The South Polar Flight.
 Announcement of plans for Commander Byrd's Antarctic expedition indicates a breadth of purpose and a thoroughness of organization from which, if things go well, large additions may be expected to the world's knowledge of Antarctic geography. A well-equipped base will be established, with tractors, dogs and sleighs for land work, as well as three or four specially built planes for work in the air. The company will comprise more than fifty men, including a news correspondent and powerful broadcasting apparatus, to keep the outside world informed as to what is going on.

Of course work in the air, over uncharted ice-fields of the sea and icy heights of the great Antarctic plateau, has serious dangers of its own, somewhat different from those of polar explorers who work only on the surface. The Byrd expedition, however, will be as well prepared as is humanly possible to minimize those dangers. It will not be strange if a plane or two is forced down at some point from which it cannot rise again; but we may hope that Commander Byrd and his intrepid men, with their unusually excellent equipment and experience for such work, will keep themselves as safe as the average flyer here at home.—Columbus Dispatch.

Never Touched The Tyrant.
 It would be interesting, if possible, to explore the thoughts, if any, of those Mexican university students who participated in a demonstration "against the tyrant Gomez, of Venezuela."

A news dispatch says that when the Confederation of Mexican Students received a cablegram conveying the information that three hundred students of the University of Caracas, Venezuela, had been imprisoned "iniquitously," an equal number of Mexican students expressed their disapproval at midnight. The demonstration was so vociferous and destructive and potentially dangerous that the Mexican police felt called upon to interfere. Net results were broken heads, broken glass and several arrests.

It has been said that logic and rhetoric make men able to contend. The Mexican students left out the logic and substituted nothing but noise. This effervescence of Latin-American temperament leaves "the tyrant Gomez" untouched.—Toledo Blade.

Robbers Loot Store; Steal Hams, Bacon

Burglars, Who Smash Plate Glass Window With Brick in Effecting Entrance, Leave Overcoat and Quantity of Whisky.

Robbers last night entered the A. & P. store, Carolina avenue, between Fourth and Fifth street, and escaped with five strips of bacon, four hams and other food stuffs.

The burglars, who gained entrance to the place by hurling a brick through a large plate glass window, left a military overcoat and half pint bottle containing a small quantity of whisky.

The robbery was discovered at 6:30 this morning by E. V. Wehner who reported it to Chief of Police Smith.

Another robbery occurred here three weeks ago when the office of R. L. Parker, Real Estate agency was entered and a $250 radio stolen from the rear of the building.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am sixteen years of age and in love with a boy of twenty. I know that he loves me a great deal, but he has not a very good position. My friends say that I should get a boy with more money for I will not be happy if we have financial problems. Please, advise me what to do. MAY.

MAY: Your attitude is hardly commendable, my dear, and I urge you to change your point of view before you let such ideas spoil your chance for happiness. If you really loved this boy, you would not be so disturbed over financial matters; you would be willing to wait until he had improved his position and was able to support you. Undoubtedly, it is your extreme youth that leads you to think in this way and while you are too young to be concerned about love or to be considering marriage, I'd like to help you to a realization that may cause you to change your mind. While money is a pleasant assurance of material comforts, it is an empty joy unless one has love along with it. I urge you to drop this idea of seeking a boy with money and realize that ambition, perseverance, character and love are to be placed high above the value of money. You will be far happier if you marry the man you love and help him work toward your mutually improved and happy future than you would ever be if you married a boy whose only attraction lay in the fact that he had money. Think it over, May, and see if you don't agree with me after all. I would advise you to put aside this consideration of marriage until you are a bit older.

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a girl in my teens and I go with three girls about my age. When we are going to school we seem to be very good friends. When Sunday comes the three girls go out walking together and never invite me to accompany them. Will you please tell me how I can make myself interesting so they will want me?

INQUISITIVE.

Inquisitive: If you feel that you are lacking in some way, I would suggest that you go a bit further and try to correct this fault so that your friends

I am sure the solution of this problem lies in your own hands, for if these girls are friendly during the week there should be no cause for them to be different to you on Sunday. It is possible that you exaggerate or imagine their attitude and if you expressed some desire to go with them they would be glad to have you accompany them. Try it some time; ask them if they are going walking and if you may join them. I can see no reason why they should refuse.

THIRD ARREST IS MADE IN HILLCREST ROBBERY INQUIRY

RALPH CARNES BOUND OVER TO LISBON COURT

Released Under Bond After Hearing Before Mayor.

TWO OTHERS HELD Seven Arrests Made Over Week-end in Wellsville.

Marking the third arrest following the recent robbery of the Frank Wilcox grocery store, Hillcrest, Constables A. W. Oyster Saturday night jailed Ralph Carnes, of Wellsville. At a hearing before Mayor W. L. Fogo, Carnes was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond. He furnished the bond and was released.

Ray McCauley and William Daniels, other members of the trio accused of the burglary, are in the county jail at Lisbon. Each was bound over for grand jury action under bonds similar to that of Carnes.

Carnes' arrest was one of seven made by Wellsville police during the week-end. Private Paul Snyder, whose home residence is Danbury avenue, and who enlisted May 17, 1927, with Co. K, 35th Infantry, in Pittsburgh, wanted as a deserter, was picked up Saturday night. Today he was sent back to Fort Hayes, Columbus, in custody of Patrolman Charles Hanlon. Snyder, according to information filed with authorities by army officers, obtained a furlough while on duty at Honolulu and failed to return. He was a railroad brakeman before entering the service. John R. Greene and G. J. Dillon, East Liverpool, arrested by Patrolman Hanlon and Reed on charges of intoxication, paid fines of $10 each. John R. Raffle, East Liverpool, arrested on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor, by Officers Oyster and Duncan, was fined $100 and paid it.

George Smith, East Liverpool, arrested by Hanlon, Cole and Oyster, also was charged with possessing. According to police, a bottle of liquor was found in Smith's car. He made arrangements to pay the fine.

Case of George Harrison, East Liverpool, arrested by Oyster and Hanlon on a charge of possession, is to be heard by Mayor W. L. Fogo today.

Mystery surrounding the efforts of enemies of Isaac Freeman, Buckeye avenue, to "plant" liquor, it is said, at the Freeman home Sunday night, was cleared up in a session held by Mayor Fogo late last night. Unable to prove ownership of the liquor, police found, authorities made no arrests but expect to continue investigation of the affair.

One individual, according to police, was dispatched to police headquarters by several others, and instructed to inform police that there was liquor concealed in a coal hole underneath Freeman's home. This he did. Freeman was brought into jail as well as about a quart of cheap liquor in several small bottles. Freeman, questioned, denied ownership vehemently.

And the heavy snow that fell yesterday practically substantiated his claims. According to authorities there was one set of tracks leading to the hole where the liquor was alleged to have been "planted," and they, obviously, did not belong to Freeman. Police continued the round-up as other names were mentioned in the case, the affair resulting finally in a sort of "open forum."

Ultimately, and privately, the informer admitted that he had been instructed to "sneak" on Freeman, but said, too, that the knew nothing of the liquor nor to whom it belonged. Every one else questioned last night also denied ownership of the liquor.

GARAGE, TWO TRUCKS, BURN IN IRONDALE

Incendiarism is Suspected by Owners.

LOSS IS $3,000

Bucket Brigade Saves Adjoining Homes.

Garage owned by Calvin May, and two trucks, the property of Hutchinson Hart, transfer man, were destroyed by fire Sunday morning at 3 o'clock in Irondale.

Incendiarism is suspected by May and Hart. The flames aroused neighbors who hastily formed a bucket brigade in an attempt to check the fire. The blaze, however, had gotten such a start that it was impossible to save either the building or the trucks within. Attention was centered on preventing the flames from spreading to nearby homes.

The garage, valued at $150, was not insured. The two trucks, valued at $3,000, were partly insured.

Seek Permit for Wells-ville, East Liverpool Fare.

Appeal was filed in the Ohio supreme court at Columbus Saturday by counsel for the Steubenville-Canton Transportation company seeking reversal of an order, issued by the state utilities commission of February 14, last, rejecting the company's application for a rehearing after the commission had denied the company's request for permission to extend its operations from Wellsville to East Liverpool.

The appeal was based upon the contention that the commission's action was "unreasonable and unlawful" and that its decision was against "the weight of evidence and contrary to law." The company asked for authority to make the proposed extension.

ILLFATED S-4 RAISED, ON WAY TO DRY-DOCK

Old Glory Flies at Half Mast of Sub.

TOMB OF EIGHT

Interior of Craft Will be explored for Messages.

CHARLESTOWN, NAVY YARD
BOSTON, March 19.—Swinging slowly with the tide in the bright sunlight and with her flag at half mast flying from her battered conning tower, the submarine S-4 was successfully jockeyed into dry-dock No. 2 today.

The big gates swung behind the craft and the work of pumping the water from the dock was started, the shattered submersible resting on an even keel on blocks. Only her conning tower showed above the surface as she entered the dry-dock.

CHARLESTOWN NAVY YARD,
BOSTON, Mass., March 19.—With Old Glory flying at half mast on her conning tower, the ill-fated submarine
S-4 with her burden of eight bodies, was pointed toward the dry-docks at high tide today. Within the steep sides of the dry-dock will be written the last chapter of the S-4 disaster—when the naval undersea craft was rammed to the bottom of Cape Cod three months ago.

The hull, which is the tomb of eight of the 40 men who went to their doom when the submersible was cut down by the coast guard destroyer Paulding, will be pumped out in readiness for the removal of the bodies tonight.

The interior of the shattered submarine will be explored for any final messages written by Lieut. Graham Newell Fitch, commander of the S-4, and his five brave mates who to their last breath tapped code messages that stirred the heart of the nation at Christmas time. Official messages, if any are found, will be turned over to naval authorities and if there are any final messages to the loved ones of the men they will be delivered to the bereaved families, some of whom are here awaiting the opening of the ship.

Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commanding the first naval district, decided not to remove the bodies until tonight in order that no photographs may be taken. J. B. Taylor, finger-print expert of the bureau of navigation, was here to receive the bodies at Chelsea Naval hospital. After identification they will be sent home for burial.

A death watch was assigned to guard the submersible until the last body was removed.

amount of the liquid was obtained by the police as evidence. Several baskets of corks and empty bottles were also confiscated.

Harry Watkins, Ridgeway avenue, brother of the defendant, posted a $1,366 bond for his appearance this morning. This amount including an unpaid liquor fine of $356 for which an execution was issued. When Watkin failed to appear at 10 o'clock this morning, Patrolman Robert Borger

YOUNG RODY P. MARSHALL, NECK BROKEN LOSES FIGHT FOR LIFE

PITTSBURGH, March 19.—Death emerged the victor today in one of the gamiest fights for life against insurmountable odds on record. After a two and a half year fight against the effects of a broken neck, young Rody P. Marshall Jr., son of a widely known criminal lawyer, succumbed following a relapse.

On July 15, 1925, while diving in shallow water at Narragansett, R. I., young Marshall's neck was broken. His death was expected momentarily and there ensued a thrilling race of his parents who were in Europe, to beat death to the bedside.

Their arrivals had a stimulating effect upon young Rody, and medical science succeeded in driving off for the time what seemed to be certain death. Finally he was well enough to be removed to his home here, where Gene Tunney, Bobby Jones, Babe Ruth and other sports kings visited him to encourage him in his valiant battle.

Until a month ago he showed steady improvement. Then a relapse set in and he declined steadily. Last night he died. Expressions of sorrow poured into the Marshall home today from persons all over the country who had been interested in the boy.

BOY IS INJURED

Craft Wing Collapses and Entangles in Propeller.

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—Officials today opened an investigation into the cause of the tragic airplane accident in which three civilian fliers were hurled to their death at Wilmington near here yesterday.

The plane, according to witnesses, plunged to death from a height of about 2,000 feet, when its right wing collapsed and became entangled in the propeller. Jack Martin, pilot;
William H. Hulbert and Leonard T.
English were instantly killed.

The plane fell in the front yard of a small home, where a group of children were at play. Part of the plane struck 14-year-old Jacinto Zamudio, who was knocked unconscious. His injuries were not serious.

Husband Saves Girl

day, gave the original copy of Mc-Donald's statement to Minister of Justice Lapointe. The federal cabinet will consider the case tomorrow but no decision will be made concerning a postponement of the hanging until Thursday night, the eve of the scheduled execution.

While McDonald's respite, if granted, will be but a temporary one to enable him to testify at a second trial, legal authorities here were convinced today that the former Broadway cabaret girl will be granted a new trial and will be acquitted as a result of her husband's melodramatic intercession.

Wife Innocent, Says Statement

While McDonald declared in his affavit that the girl had no part in the murder and that the confessor which she made to Sergeant Clark in Denver was completely untrue, he carefully refrained from making any statement incriminating himself or Frank McMullen, missing member of the trio accused by the crown of killing the Lachine taxi driver.

His statement, made to officials at Bordeaux prison here, reads as follows:

"To whom it may concern:
"This is to certify that my wife,
Doris Palmer McDonald, now in jail at Montreal, is innocent of the murder of A. Bouchard.
"I swear to this by my God in Heaven. She had not one thing to do with the murder or helped in any way and the confession she made in Denver is untrue."

PLAIN DEALER EDITOR DIES

Erie C. Hopwood, Cleveland, Succumbs to Heart Attack.

CLEVELAND, March 19.—Erie C.
Hopwood, 51, editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer since 1920, is dead at his home here.

Cause of death, which came late Sunday night, was attributed to a
heart attack.

Mr. Hopwood was born in North Eaton, Ohio, February 7, 1877. His early school days were spent in Ash-tubula county. Coming to Cleveland in 1897 he attended Western Reserve university where he gained a reputation as an excellent student. Graduating in 1901 he taught school for a time in Middletown, O., but, having a preference for newspaper work he joined the Plain Dealer in 1902, and steadily worked his way upward, through various capacities, to the position he held at death.

Hopwood was an admirer of Mayor Tom L. Johnson and a close friend of Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war. He became well known for his political writings and was in great demand as a public speaker.

Funeral arrangements were to be completed today.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, March 19.—Profit taking in the industrial stocks at the beginning of trading today was offset by the firm tone of the railroad stocks, which pushed forward to a slightly higher range of prices under the lead of New York Central. A few of the low-priced specialties sold higher, with Electric Refrigerator stocks in good demand. Rubber and tire stocks recovered some of last week's lost ground. Motors and industrials were under pressure.

Industrial and business conditions at the beginning of the new week practically unchanged. It was believed that gold exportation had been concluded for the time being, and that a large volume of funds would be seeking employment in the security markets.

Strength and activity in the railroad stocks accompanied reports of gradual improvement in traffic conditions, and confidence was expressed in the outlook for the second quarter's earnings of representative roads. Important announcements are expected soon as to the agreement effected in the trunk-line consolidations in the eastern territory. New York Central moved up to a new high at 17 1/2.

Radio Corporation dropped 6 points to 135 in the first hour. Offerings of the stock increased.

The Hungarians were part of a large

last week, representing their govern-

The demonstrators carried banners reading "Hejjas, A Mass Murderer,"

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed. External treatments seldom banish Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby. The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Mathew's Original Cut Rate, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

"For many months," writes a man in New York, "I was bothered with an extremely cloudy complexion. I always seemed to have pimples or blackheads. Often large blotches would appear, and I thought it came from shaving. Then someone recommended Resinol. I put it on at night, and within a few days was surprised to find that my face had completely cleared up. Resinol brings quick relief. You try it. At all druggists."

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

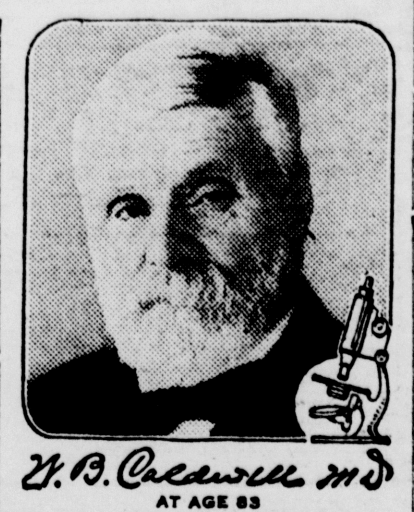

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than that his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with psyllin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

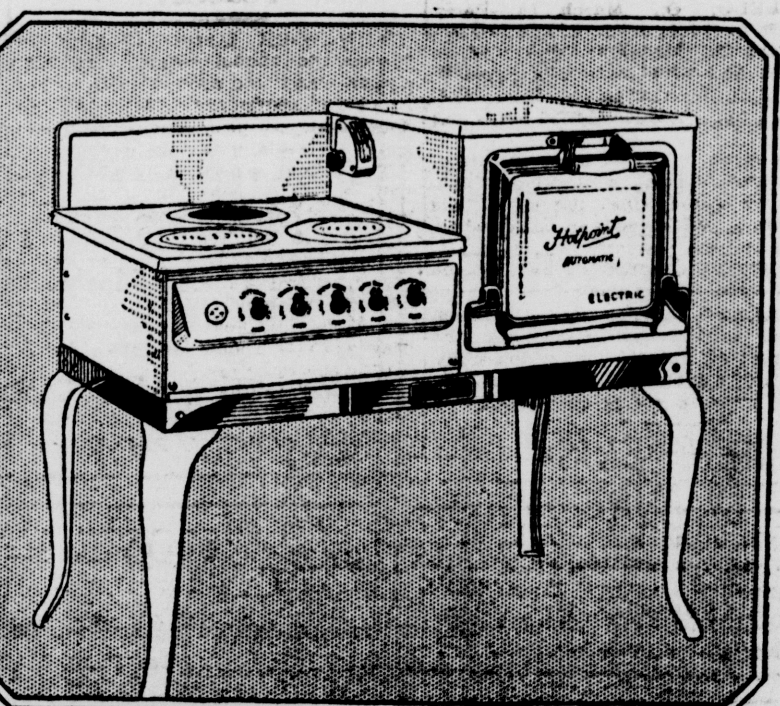

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, it is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. It is mild and gentle in its action and does not cause griping and strain. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home—where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Changing Weather Proves Fitness of Sundale Furnace

The winter weather that we have had thus far is of the type that will easily prove the merits of the Sundale furnace, built by the Ravenna Furnace & Heating Company, of Ravenna, O., and handled by John S. Cundiff, of Chester.

For a number of days winter held us in a tight, icy grasp. That's when we needed heat in our homes.

Then the atmosphere changes to an almost spring-like warmth. That's when your heater must prove its ability of regulation. While heat still is needed, it must be kept in check and at the same time there must be preservation of fuel.

The Sundale, built plainly with heavy, large capacity firepot and self-cleaning radiator, is a known leader in the furnace world.

The Sundale has a firepot capacity that is designed to take care of heat distribution in the bitterest of winter weather but it is so easily regulated that in warmer days it may be "tuned down" to the right warmth with an economy in fuel. It has less parts than any other furnace.

Mr. Cundiff welcomes the opportunity to prove any of these advantages to you.

Enterprises's Coal Gives Full Value in Heat and Comfort

Don't always blame the defenseless furnace if you don't get the maximum value in warmth and comfort out of it during the chilling days of winter.

The furnace will convert the fuel that is fed into it, into heat and also handles the job of sending it off to the various parts of the building to which the heat belongs.

But the first important thing in the matter of heating a building is the fuel itself. Your heating value will be in direct relation to the value of the fuel that is the initial source of the heat.

The Enterprise will pay prompt attention to all orders and will deliver to any place in the city.

Make Your Brakes Safe at Stype and Lewis' Shop Here

If the brakes of your automobile are O. K. it's pretty certain that your car is going to be about as safe as it is possible to make any mechanical device of that nature.

If you don't know whether they are safe or not, if you're not able to go down a grade of any moment without a feeling of apprehension from the top to the bottom, then you'd better stop in front of the Stype & Lewis Tire Shop and have them inspected. Ice, snow, slick places, here and there make driving at this time of the year treacherous enough without adding still additional hazards, and proper action of your brakes is one thing that you do have absolute control over.

Stype & Lewis are official Raybestos agents here and will be glad at any time to inspect your car at their shop, 106 West Fourth street.

While each of these difficulties is serious, they can be readily corrected once the trouble is diagnosed at the Stype & Lewis shop. They are fully equipped to recognize symptoms of this nature and can prescribe the proper remedy.

High Class Work is Always Standard at Simms Printing Co.

The appeal of the printed word is limitless and invaluable for whatever purpose it is designed and especially when the mechanics of the job—be it the most simple of notices or the most elaborate of invitations or personal stationery—are the handiwork of the Simms Printing Company.

The company's name has been synonymous with good printing since 1876—or over a period of 51 years. Established in '76 by Jere H. Simms and operated by him continuously until his death in 1924, the business now is of service to the same discriminating clientele, directed by Alex Wilson and Gordon Brick, practical printers.

The Simms Printing Company renders a fine additional service in the maintenance of a special stock of legal and similar forms which are always available for emergency use, this stock including general warranty deeds, deeds of trust, land contracts, plain leases, oil and gas leases, building contracts, notices before suit, notices and certificate of protests, for rent signs, for sale signs, no trespassing placards and other similar legal forms in use daily.

Prescott's is Real "Service Station" In Jewelry Line

Prescott's jewelry shop, on St. Clair avenue, just a few minutes from the diamond, is more than merely a jewelry store—it is a real "service station" in all matters pertaining to the sale, repair, remodeling, designing or advising in the general line of jewelry.

If you would purchase jewelry, R. P. Prescott, the proprietor of this busy little shop, explains that he can quote prices that should be eminently satisfactory.

But, besides this, Prescott's shop provides a craftsmanship in repair and other kinds of work that makes trading at this shop of additional value to the patron.

Expert workmanship is promised here on Swiss watches. Lengthy delays, awaiting the convenience of out-of-town repairmen, are not necessary as a result of Prescott's factory experience and ability in this line. Prescott's is not far out of the way and it may pay you to go there the next time.

Prompt Attention And Reliability is Kinsey Co., Pledge

Have your pipes been standing the gaff?

We mean the plumbing in your home, or your place of business. How has it come through the cold weather? Did you have to have the services of a plumber or is the system still as good as ever?

People who have had the foresight to employ the W. C. Kinsey & Sons company for their work will provide the proof of this statement. This firm's reputation as masters of their craft has been earned over a period of years of satisfactory service and is justly deserved.

If you have ever had occasion to call Kinsey's on a repair job, you can be certain that whatever they fixed is guaranteed to stay fixed.

The Kinsey Company also is highly skilled in the installation and servicing of practically any make of heating system—hot air, steam, vapor or whatever it may be. If your furnace hasn't been working properly let them look it over and put it into the condition in which it ought to be. They promise prompt attention.

Antlers To Resume Series With Midland Collegians Tonight

Steelers Expect to Even it up

MIDLAND, Pa., March 19.—Steel City Collegians are grooming themselves for their second meeting with East Liverpool Elks in Lincoln high school gym here tonight. Although the Antlers took the first heat of the three game series by a safe margin on their own floor in the Ceramic City, the Collegians are confident they will run the Columbian county quintet a better race tonight. They point to the fact that Wuschinski, agile guard, was missing from their lineup last Monday night.

Second game of the play-off series of the Midland church league between Catholic and Presbyterian fives will be featured as a prelim. Catholics were victors in the first game of the series.

Lincoln ex-hibits and Helms quit from the Pottery City will also clinch in a prelim.

Date and place for the third game of the Collegian-Elk series to be played in case the Midlanders win tonight will be decided by club managers after the scrap.

TORONTO, March 19.—Brown's News quit defeated the East Liverpool Elks here Saturday night, 40 to 33, in the first match of a two-game series, the second of which will be staged on the East Liverpool court on Wednesday night.

Both teams were off form, as far as team play was concerned, although marksmanship was fairly good.

The Toronto outfit played the last three minutes with four men on the court, the remainder having been removed for personal fouls.

Captain Smith Anderson of the Elks was badly cut about the mouth in a collision with another player toward the close of the second period and was forced to leave the game.

The Torontonians held a 27 to 11 lead at the half, but the visitors rallied gamely in the third and final quarters to reduce the gap substantially.

L. Hinkle led the victors with 15 points, while Joe Canne, East Liverpool center, topped the Elks with 14.

Canton, Dayton Get Berths on All-Star Five

COLUMBUS, March 19.—Canton McKinley and Dayton Stivers, runner-up and winner, respectively, of the Class A basketball championship of Ohio, landed two men apiece on the all-star tourney five picked by officials following the final contest Saturday. Columbus Central placed a man in the remaining berth.

Here are the all-stars: Woodward, Columbus Central, and Beidler, Canton McKinley, forwards; Hosket, Dayton Stivers, center; Jurekovic, Canton McKinley, and Farrier, Dayton Stivers, guards.

The second team—Lively, Stivers, and Hayes, Hamilton, forwards; Sauer, Akron South, center; J. Miller, Fremont, and Hedderly, Akron South, guards.

COLUMBUS, O., March 19.—Dayton Stivers today holds the Ohio high school basketball championship after chalking up a 25 to 20 victory over Canton McKinley in the finals of the state class A tournament here Saturday night.

In the class B tourney, Hillsboro Marshall won the title by defeating Manchester in the final contest, 20 to 17.

The Dayton champions may not be permitted to represent Ohio in the forthcoming national tournament at Chicago, since the faculty of the school as a rule does not permit the absence of any particular group of students during the school year, it was learned today. A decision in the matter is to be reached later.

TRIBE TROUNCED IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—Smarting under their 7-9 defeat at the hands of New Orleans Sunday, the Cleveland Americans today were to engage in a stiff workout.

Poth, Cleveland recruit hurler from Texas, made a good showing in yesterday's contest after Uble and Hudlin, regular pitchers, had been nipped all too frequently for seven innings.

MIDLAND, Pa., March 19.—Stage is set and characters selected for what should prove to be a thrilling pin drama at Midland this week as the Pittsburgh Crucible rollers go into their final games. Police and Engineers' fives are tied up for top place in the league and office and Open Hearth bowlers are tied for second place.

Whether the Engineers or Police rollers will win league laurels will not be decided until the curtain drops on the 1928 schedule next Saturday night, for the game which will decide the championship was reserved, by a strange quirk of the schedule, until the season's last night.

Munroe is almost assured of getting into the money with his big individual single game score of 223 and Accountants have an equally strong hold on high score for three games of 1928. Superstein, who has held high average throughout the season, has not been toppled. He made a nice score in last week's rolling when he crashed through with a 514 one game.

Buckeyes Beaten in 3d Round

Brian Buckeyes, playing in the intermediate division of the Washington, Pa., independent basketball tournament were eliminated in the third round, being put out of the running for tournament honors by the Washington Juniors, 24 to 15.

The Buckeyes passed a creditable showing at the tournament, surviving the first two rounds. They knocked off the Pittsburgh Kileners in the first round, 19 to 16, and runaway from the Uniontown Five Horsemen in the second round, 37 to 15.

In the contest with the Five Horsemen the Buckeyes set a speedy clip, leading 22 to 9 at the end of the initial half. The second half was only a repetition of the first, the Buckeyes easily doubling the score. All the Buckeyes played good basketball and all contributed to the scoring. M. McConville swishing the ball through the nets for six buckets and a charity point. Garbart, with four buckets, played the best game for the Horsemen. The game between the Buckeyes and the Washington Juniors was a real battle in the last five minutes of play. All the Buckeyes gave a good account of themselves. H. McConville, with 3 field goals and a foul, led the Buckeyes in scoring.

Stolen Idols

A Romance of the Sea
By Frank L. Packard.

But they were intent upon something now. The one who had done most of the talking had produced what looked like a slender piece of rattan of the sort used in weaving native baskets. It was about twelve inches long, and it must have been dry and brittle for Bob could just catch the faint crackle of it as the man broke it into pieces. Five pieces! Five pieces of different lengths! They lay on the deck now beside the candle for all to see.

And now the man, whether the actual leader of the band or not, but who so far had acted as master of ceremonies, shuffled the little pieces of sticks together; then suddenly his hand closed swiftly over them, and as swiftly went behind his back. The next instant he thrust out a closed fist from which protruded evenly the ends of the five little sticks.

Bob Kingsley's lip took on a grimmer twist. It was merely a gamble as to which one of the five should wield the knife—the murder itself was already as having been accomplished. They were drawing lots. Each man in turn reached out and extracted a piece of stick from the extended fist.

Was it the longest or the shortest piece that carried with it the gruesome honor of election? He did not know. Nor could he see who had drawn the one or the other. They were evidently measuring the sticks by laying them out side by side on the floor, but their bodies were all bent forward and their heads were all together, and nothing of what was going on could be seen. Nor did any one of the five, either by word or gesture, indicate who had been chosen.

The light went out. The door began to open and close—at intervals. The five Chinamen were gone.

Bob Kingsley made his way out of the sweltering heat of the ship's storeroom. In the alleyway, with the lurch of the ship as he started toward the companionway to the main deck, he lurched like a drunken man. The old scrowger seemed to be making worse weather of it than before. Much worse! Or was it himself? It had been suffocating in there—his head was throbbing with it. That was a small matter however—a breath of fresh air up there on deck would set him straight again fast enough, and anyway his head was throbbing vastly more on quite another count.

What was he to do? He was conscious of a sense of moral responsibility that would be neither ignored nor denied. There was something ironical about it, too—as though fate had taken a hand in the game, and was having a bit of a laugh at him, challenging him to a tilt. He couldn't watch all of those five Chinamen, for they would certainly have scattered by now; but neither could he stand by inactive and permit some man, "a man with a torn garment," to be murdered in cold blood. He did not know who the proposed victim was, nor did he know which one of the five Chinamen was the actual assassin-elect—but that did not relieve him of his responsibility in any degree, and unless he acted, and acted quickly, some man's life would pay for his failure to live up to that responsibility.

He was on the main deck now, where, opening on the deck itself were the limited number of first-class cabins. His own amongst them, that the Monotah possessed. And suddenly he stood still. He glanced swiftly out over the rail. There was a heavy sea running and it was blowing half a gale, but for the moment the Monotah was on a fairly even keel. And yet, as though her nose were pointing downward into the trough of some huge wave and though she had thrown her stern high in the air and had lifted her propeller from the water, the engines were racing like mad, insensate things. Every rivet and every plate in the ship seemed to shake and vibrate as though they were striving to wrench themselves apart. He heard the clang of the engine-room bell. He heard the patter of feet along the boat deck overhead. And then abruptly, the engines stopped, and, as abruptly, the vibration ceased.

Engine trouble of some kind probably! Not a particularly good night for that sort of things—but there were worse things than engine trouble. Those blasted Chinamen, for instance, with their infernal knife-sticking proclivities!

Well, after all, there was only one thing to do—go up to Captain Karler's cabin which was beneath the bridge on the boat deck above, lay his own cards on the table, and put the whole matter up to the Monotah's commander. Captain Karler was an irascible little old chap, of course, and not the sort that inspired confidence, but there was no reason why his, Bob Kingsley's, participation in the affair should be known to any one outside the skipper himself. All that was necessary was that the five Chinamen, on whatever pretext best suited Captain Karler, should be herded together and kept under surveillance. Logically, Captain Karler could not help but be in accord with his, Bob Kingsley's, efforts to draw the net around the whole piratical gang of which these five men here were probably but a small part, but who, if nothing went awry, could be made to serve as decoys for the rest. There was no reason why any of the five should have the slightest suspicion that he had any hand whatever in the restriction Captain Karler put upon their liberty, or any suspicion that such restrictions were even remotely connected with the visit of Hsi Yan's junk to Kailawa. It was the one way out—the only thing to do. He had to depend on Captain Karler being a reasonable man; but, in any case, he had no choice. He could not stand idly by and see a man murdered—murdered, probably, would be the better word!

The engines were still silent; and the Monotah, evidently due to the fact that she had lost storage-way and had fallen off broadside to the sea, was rolling more heavily than ever as Bob Kingsley mounted the forward port ladder to the boat deck. Here, for an instant he paused and looked around him. Whatever the trouble was, there seemed to be no undue commotion in evidence save that two native Malay sailors in uncharacteristic haste brushed by him on the run and scurried down the ladder he had just ascended, and that a voice which he recognized as that of the skipper himself was bellowing an order from the bridge.

Bob Kingsley, without standing on any ceremony, made for the bridge ladder, and in a trice was standing on the bridge itself. Something might be wrong with the engines, something undoubtedly was wrong, but there was something else wrong, too, down there below decks, something that was imperative in its demand for immediate action. In cold En'lish, a man's life was at stake.

At the starboard end of the bridge he could make out two figures leaning over the weather-cloth. "He stepped toward them—one was the squat, stodgy figure of Captain Karler, and, as he drew nearer, he saw that the man was in pajamas; the other, bawling suddenly at the moment through cupped hands to some one on the fo'c'sle head, he recognized as Parsons.

CHAPTE 15.

Bob Kingsley touched Captain Karler on the arm; and, as the other whirled sharply around he could see that the skipper's face was hard, the lines about the man's lips tightly drawn. And, meeting the other's stony glare, he attributed this decidedly ungracious reception to his own unlicensed invasion of the bridge—on which subject he suddenly remembered that Captain Karler was more of a martinet than the commander of a crack liner.

"Looked here," he said hurriedly. "I know it's a bit out of order, my barking up here, but what I have to say to you won't wait. As a matter of fact, I was going to your room to knock you up about it. There isn't time to tell you how I found it out—I'll explain all that in detail after you've got those five Chinamen down there cooped up together with some one keeping an eye on them. I don't want to assume the scepter, but there isn't a minute to lose. They've got it in for some chap—I don't know who—murder, you understand? I saw them drawing lots to see who would do the job. And as I don't know who drew the long stick or the short stick, or whatever it was that elected him, the only thing to do is to grab the lot of them, and grab them quick, or else it will cost some poor devil his life."

For a moment Captain Karler was silent, his face still set like a stone; and then he gave a short, unnatural, airless laugh.

Priest is Hero as Fire Sweeps Church

Plunges Into Veritable
Inferno to Save Blessed Sacrament During $100,000 Blaze at Mountain View, Cal.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Cal., March 19.—For 36 years. He was made president at the last annual directors' meeting in January of this year. He was well known in central Ohio and was prominent in the Elks and Masonic lodges.

—Heap of ashes is all that remains today of this little town's largest structure, St. Joseph's Catholic church. But out of those ashes there emerged the story of heroism, nourished by the faith of Father J. W. Galvin. When firemen yesterday dashed in to the parish to inform Father Galvin that his church was in flames, the priest, disregarding all warnings, plunged into a veritable inferno, battled his way to the altar and snatched from the devouring fire the only sacred article which the blaze had not yet touched, the Blessed Sacrament. The gold chalice, the priestly vestments and the church records perished before Father Galvin could reach them, but he saved the Blessed Sacrament at the risk of his life and escaped uninjured.

The church was totally burned at a loss of $100,000.

A can of oil and oil-soaked rags, discovered by fire-fighters on the stairs of the church, led police here to suspect that the blaze was the work of fanatical arsonists.

LOEB-LEOPOLD CASE BLAMED IN TOTS DEATH

Two Pennsylvania Mothers Kill Their Children.

ONE TAKES POISON

Another Found Insane and Committed to Asylum.

PITTSBURGH.—Two western Pennsylvania mothers, both lacking all attributes of the commonly accepted "flapper" type, in the last few weeks have killed their children in what to all appearances was a fit of temporary insanity.

Mrs. Catherine Ward, a young mother with a reputation as a good housewife and kind to her children, strangled her 8-months-old daughter and then slashed the throat of her 3-year-old son. She slashed her own wrists and drank poison.

Only a short time before, at Mercer, Pa., Mrs. Jeannie McCall, the wife of a sturdy Scotch coal miner, calmly walked into a little school house and drawing a butcher knife from the folds of her coat, slashed her son's throat from ear to ear.

Sent To Asylum.
A commission found her insane and committed her to an asylum. Other similar cases have been reported from different sections.

On all sides the question is being asked: "How can it be possible for a mother to suddenly take the life of her own child or children—what causes that 'something' to snap in her brain and cause her to commit the dreadful deed?"

The question was submitted to a number of physicians and without exception they agreed upon one thing:

"Mothers must stop reading all the horrible details of crime and must keep it from their children."

Every physician consulted felt that suggestion has been responsible for practically every crime since the famous Leopold-Loeb case in Chicago. "You can trace those things back to the Leopold and Loeb case," declared Dr. H. A. Hutchinson, head of the State Hospital for Insane at Dixmont, Pa. "There were never such horrible things before. I believe that suggestion has snapped the cord that holds so many persons from the border land of insanity and brought about these crimes."

Dr. Hutchinson believes the Hickman case in California is responsible for many of them, especially those in which figure young boys trying to ape his crimes in such large numbers.

Morbid Tendencies.
Another physician, Dr. T. M. T. McKenna, a neuro specialist, deplored the fact that mothers read and dwell on those things. So did Dr. Henninger, president of the Allegheny Medical Society.

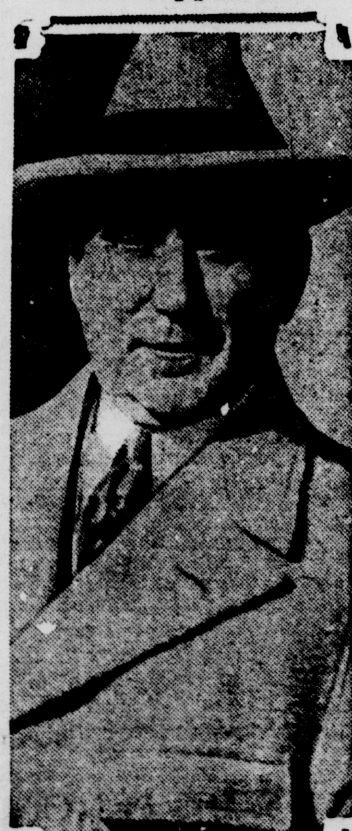

Psychiatrists all over the city are of one mind. Blood curdling melodrama is bad for everybody. We should try to find the pictures that help us to look on the sunny side of life.

That morbid tendency of women to gather over tea cups and wallow in hair-raising stories of murder and mystery and thoroughly enjoying themselves in all the details of the latest murder is a terrible mistake, they say.

In a few words, Dr. Hutchinson summed up his advice for mothers who worry over the McCall case, the Ward story and similar crimes. It is:

"Don't think about these things. Keep your children away from them. Be careful what you read. If you are tired and overwrought, and your little ones get on your nerves—rest."
